One of Oman's leading further-education institutions, Sultan Qaboos University (SQU) welcomes more than 3,000 students to its campus each year. SQU aims to produce cutting-edge research that benefits both Oman and the wider world. To take its research in innovative new directions and build its international profile, the university engaged Lenovo to deploy a new cluster based on Lenovo ThinkSystem servers—boosting HPC performance.

"The Lenovo solution is having a very positive impact on our ability to strengthen our international research profile and attract talented graduate students from around the world."
